"woman" includes a girl-child.

PART II – WOMEN'S HUMAN RIGHTS PROTECTION

Application of the Constitution

3. In addition to the rights guaranteed under Chapter IV of the Constitution of the Republic of The Gambia, every woman has the rights and shall enjoy the protections set out in this Act.

Right to dignity

4. Every woman is entitled to respect for the dignity of her person, and accordingly, no woman shall be-

- (a) subjected to torture or to inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment;
- (b) held in slavery or servitude; and
- (c) required to perform forced or compulsory labour.

Right to life, integrity and security of the person

5. (1) Every woman is entitled to respect for her life and the integrity and security of her person.

(2) Death sentence shall not be carried out on any woman who is pregnant or nursing a child.

Protection from violence

6. (1) Every woman shall be protected against any form of physical, sexual, psychological or economic harm, suffering, or violence whether occurring in public or private life.

(2) Any form of violence against women is hereby prohibited

(3) All Government Departments, agencies, organs, public or private institutions shall take appropriate measures to promote and protect women's right and their legal status from any form of abuse or violence by any person, enterprise, organisation or institution.

Access to justice and equal protection
before the law

7. (1) Every woman is entitled to equality and justice before the law and to equal protection of the law.

(2) In pursuance of subsection (1), a woman-

- (a) in civil matters, has a legal capacity identical to that of a man and the same opportunities to exercise that capacity;
- (b) has equal rights to conclude contracts and to administer property;
- (c) shall be treated equally in all stages of the procedures in courts, tribunals and other judicial proceedings; and
- (d) has the same rights with regard to the law relating to the movement of persons and the freedom to choose their residence and domicile.

(3) All contracts and all other private instruments of any kind with a legal effect directed at restricting the legal capacity of a woman are deemed null and void.

(4) The Government shall-

- (a) provide legal aid support to ensure equal protection and promotion for women;
- (b) ensure that law enforcement organs at all levels are equipped to effectively interpret and enforce gender equality rights;

- (c) ensure that women are equitably represented in the Judiciary and law enforcement organs of the State; and
- (d) take adequate steps to reform existing discriminatory laws and practices in order to promote and protect the rights of women.

Right to freedom of expression

8. Every woman is entitled to freedom of expression, including freedom to hold opinions and to receive and impart ideas and information without interference.

Right to freedom from discrimination

9. (1) A woman shall not be made to suffer any discrimination by reason only that she is a woman.

(2) In accordance with subsection (1), a woman shall not be subjected, either expressly, or in the application of any law in force in The Gambia or any executive or administrative action of Government, to disabilities or restrictions to which citizens of The Gambia are generally not made subject.

(3) Nothing in this section prevents the making of laws in pursuance of promoting equality for women in the society and removing all forms of discrimination against women in law and in practice.

(4) Nothing contained in any law shall be held to be inconsistent with or in contravention of subsection (1) to the extent that it makes provision with respect to standards of qualifications (not being standards of qualifications specifically relating to race, colour, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth, gender or other status) to be required of any person who is appointed to any office-

- (a) in the public service;
- (b) in a disciplined force;

(c) in the service of a Local Government Authority; or

(d) in a body corporate established by law for public purposes.

Prohibition of discrimination

10. (1) A person, public institution or private enterprise shall not, through words spoken, acts, inactions, omissions, laws, regulations, or administrative procedures, discriminate against women.

(2) Any person, authority, body or institution, public or private enterprise that fails in the duty imposed on him or her or it under this Act, commits an offence and is liable to pay such compensation as restitution as the court may determine.

(3) Any existing law, regulation, or practice, which constitute discrimination against women, is null and void and of no effect whatsoever and is not enforceable against any person.

Right to movable and immovable property

11. Every woman, whether by means of inheritance or otherwise, has the right to acquire and own, movable and immovable property, and to administer, manage and dispose of, the property freely without restrictions.

Enforcement of the rights of women under this Act

12. (1) The provisions of this Act are enforceable in the same manner as is set out in section 37 of the Constitution of the Republic of The Gambia 1997, or any successive provisions.

(2) Notwithstanding the generality of subsection (1), the following persons have the right to approach a competent court, alleging that a right in this Act has been infringed or threatened and the Court may grant appropriate relief, including a declaration of rights-

(a) a man or a woman acting in his or her own interest;

- (b) a man or a woman acting on behalf of another man or woman who cannot act in his or her own name;
- (c) a man or a woman acting as a member of, or in the interest of, a group or class of men or women;
- (d) a man or a woman acting in the public interest; and
- (e) an association acting in the interest of its members.

(3) The Bureau established under section 70 has the right and standing to institute action in the name of the Council to enforce any of the provisions of this Act on behalf of any woman or group of women.

Jurisdiction

13. The High Court of The Gambia has jurisdiction in respect of any infringement of this Act.

PART III – GOVERNMENT'S OBLIGATION TO ELIMINATE ALL FORMS OF DISCRIMINATION

Government's obligation to elimination of all forms of discrimination

14. (1) The Government shall promote and protect the rights of women and take positive measures to eliminate all forms of discrimination against women in all its institutions, agencies and organs, in line with its international obligations under the Convention and the Protocol.

(2) Every Ministry and Government department, agency or organ of Government is responsible for the implementation of this Act, in its respective field or area of competence.

(3) In pursuance of subsection (2), every Ministry, Government department, agency or organ of Government shall take all appropriate measures, in its field or area of competence to-

- (a) eliminate all forms of stereotypes and acts of discrimination which perpetrate or tend to perpetrate gender inequality;
- (b) ensure full and equal participation of women;
- (c) undertake a gender audit of all laws and policies in order to further reinforce the principle of equality between men and women;
- (d) mainstream gender perspective in planning and programming of all activities and initiatives; and
- (e) put institutions and policies in place to address violence against women and eliminate gender discrimination through-
 - (i) periodic training of all its personnel on gender and rights arising therefrom,
 - (ii) taking practical steps towards modification of social patterns through information and education, and
 - (iii) taking practical steps to redress discrimination and violence against women.

PART IV – TEMPORARY SPECIAL MEASURES IN FAVOUR OF WOMEN

Adoption of temporary special measures in favour of women

15. (1) Every organ, body, public institution, authority or private enterprise shall adopt temporary special measures as set out in this Act aimed at accelerating de facto equality between men and women.

(2) The special measures to be adopted under subsection (1) shall-

- (a) not be considered discrimination as defined in this Act or in any other law in force, but shall in no way entail, as a consequence, the maintenance of unequal or separate standards; and
- (b) be discontinued when the objectives of equality of opportunity and treatment have been achieved.

(3) Without prejudice to the provisions of subsections (1) and (2), every organ, body, public institution, authority or private enterprise shall take appropriate measures to protect the maternity status and reproductive health of women, including allocation of special facilities, time, and resources, aimed at protecting maternity, and such special measures shall not be considered discriminatory.
